Daugherty Will Make His Defense Tonight in Columbus Address

Expected to Flag His Accusers in Senate—Address to Be First of Series of Replies to Be Made in Public Addresses

By WM. K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, April 23. — Former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty stopped off in Washington today long enough to take a crack at the Wheeler-Brookhart committee investigating his official acts and then continued on to Columbus, Ohio, where he is to deliver an address tonight defending his record in the department of justice and assailing his senatorial accusers.

In a statement issued here, Daugherty promised to reveal at Columbus the "real reasons" behind the senatorial investigation and announced that his counter attack would be continued in subsequent public addresses.

At the same time, the senate committee prepared to institute contempt proceedings against the former attorney general's brother, Mel S. Daugherty, of Washington C. H., Ohio.

The contempt proceeding grew

Death Comes to Brother-in-Law of Local Woman

Mrs. W. R. Lynde, 324 south Fourth-st received a telegram Wednesday morning, announcing the death of her brother-in-law, Harry Pierman, age about 50 years, which occurred at his home in Los Angeles, Calif., Wednesday morning, at 5 o'clock.

Death resulted suddenly from a complication of diseases, following a long illness from diabetes. Mr. Pierman had been confined to a hospital in that city for a week, but later removed to his home.

Fourteen years ago he was united in marriage with Miss Clara Beall, daughter of the late Hiram and Mary Beall, of Coshocton. Prior to leaving for California last fall, where they since remained, they made their home in Minerva, O.

Besides the widow he is survived by his mother who lives in Minerva, and three brothers, Clyde, of Buffalo, N. Y.; John, of Cleveland and Otto, of Ottawa. One brother, Frank, preceded him to the grave a year ago.

No definite funera larrangements have been made, but the body will be shipped from Los Angeles Wednesday evening, to Minerva. Burial will be made at Minerva, probably the first of next week.

GREEN SAYS UNION MEN LIKE BERRY

No Official Endorsement by U. M. W., But Has Union Labor's Support

Altho he is not endorsed by the United Mine Workers of America as an organization, George Berry of Rogersville, Tennessee, Democratic candidate for vice-president is a favorite with the members of the organization and will receive labor support from all over the country, William Green of Coshocton, secretary of the miner organization declared to a Tribune reporter.

Berry's petition was filed by Green. Because of Green's affiliation with the miner's organization, it was thot that possibly Berry had their official support, but Mr. Green declared that the miners as a group have never so far entered into politics. Green filed the petition as a personal friend of Berry's.

Berry is president of the international Pressman's Union and is an ex-service man, having held the rank of major during the war. He is held in high regard by his friends and associates. Mr. Green said, and he is expected to make an excellent showing on the Democratic ticket.

CHIEF FIGURES IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

Cancelling all his concert engagements and summoning members of his family, Ignace Paderewski, world famous pianist and former Prime Minister of Poland, rushed in his private car from Sioux City, Iowa, to Chicago to secure doctors and nurses for his pet Pekingese spaniel, Ping Long. It has been rumored in Athens that two persons from the yacht Corsair, in which Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan were touring the Mediterranean, had been murdered in Albania. Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, asked the Senate Committee on Agriculture why Henry Ford gave his support to President Coolidge after talking with the Chief Executive on his bid for Muscle Shoals. Elon B. Hooker, New York City financier, has also bid for a 50-year lease on Muscle Shoals, promising the Government $305,000,000 and the people liberal terms for fertilizer and hydro-electric power.

FRESNO MAN KILLED BY LIVE WIRE

Friends and relatives in the vicinity of Fresno learned Wednesday of the death of George Ernest Philabaum, 31, son of George Philabaum, near Fresno, who was accidentally electrocuted last Friday while he was working in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

He touched a wire carrying a high voltage.

Funeral services were held at the home of his parents near Fresno, it was learned today. He was buried in the Fairview cemetery at Fresno.

Mr. Philabaum was deaf and dumb, being a member a few years ago of the school for mutes in Columbus. For the past six years he had been living in Indiana and was employed for the last year with a copper wire manufactory.

He was a member of a large deaf mute Bible school in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

His father and several half brothers and sisters survive him.

Street Cleaning Costs May be Placed on Cars Using Streets of City

Old Plan to Tax Property Owners on Front Footage Basis Rejected as Unfair to Residents of Dirt Streets — New Proposal to Be Submitted to Council

The cost of cleaning the streets of the city of Coshocton will be placed upon the shoulders of city automobile owners, and owners of vehicles making regular use of the city streets, if an ordinance which is being prepared for presentation to city council is approved, E. S. Gaumer, president of council, indicated Wednesday.

Tourists and infrequent visitors to the city will be exempted from the tax, but owners of pleasure and business cars residing in the city, and owners of vehicles such as dairy trucks, which make regular trips thru the city, will be obliged to pay.

The plan of assessing the cost of street cleaning against city property owners on a front footage basis has been rejected as unfair to those living on dirt streets, which are not benefited by the cleaning service, it was stated today.

The plan of the council is to have those who are affected by the tax pay to the city 25 percent of the amount paid to the state. That is, if a person's automobile license tag costs $5, he would pay $2 to the city, if the tag costs $10 he would pay $2.50 to the city, and so on up the scale. For the delivery wagons, on which there is no license tax, the ordinance would include a certain fixed amount to be paid annually.

The ordinance will be up for consideration at the next meeting of the council, and if it meets with approval it will probably be put in effect on and after the earliest period allowable, E. S. Gaumer, president of council declared today.

Coshocton's financial condition, it was pointed out by Mr. Gaumer, is not unusual among the cities of Ohio, and, according to figures given at recent tax meetings, held at the call of the city council to work out a plan for relieving the situation, it is even well off financially, compared to other cities of the state.

Nearly every day newspapers contain stories showing that financial stress is general thruout the state. Accounts of discharging parts of police forces and fire departments are to be noticed frequently. In places the lights are turned out at a certain hour each night, Mr. Gaumer said.

A flat rate occupational tax of $4 for each employe in the city of Youngstown and a tax of $1.50 on every gas and electric light meter have been decided upon by

TWENTY BURN TO DEATH IN TRAIN WRECK

GENEVA, April 23.—Twenty persons were reported burned to death in the collision of two passenger trains filled with tourists near Beilinona, Canton of Ticno today. Scores were injured. First reports from the scene said it was unknown if there were any Americans on the trains.

One train was from Milan and Gothard filled with German tourists returning to Germany from Italy. The other train was from Luerne carrying tourists to Italy.

Following the crash the wreckage caught fire and one coach was burned. Relief trains were rushed to the scene and doctors treated the injured in the open.

Final Vote on Bonus Assured for Wednesday

WASHINGTON, April 23. — The senate convened this morning under an agreement which assured a final vote on the soldiers' bonus bill during the afternoon.

Debate was restricted to a minimum with only one long speech scheduled, that of Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, whose opposition to any kind of a bonus is one of the planks upon which he is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination. Underwood was the first speaker.

Knight Pleads Tax Reduction in Akron Talk

AKRON, O., April 23.—In a speech before The Exchange Club this noon, former Congressman Charles L. Knight emphasized the need for immediate tax reduction, claiming that "business is sagging under the strain of heavy and unneeded taxes.

"The President in the Mellon bill pointed out how that strain could be removed," declared Knight. "Instead of heeding that advice, congress took to fiddling. The strains of the 'Bonus Waltz' now float across the soft spring air beseeching the former service man to get his partner and waltz right up to the poles. The seductive music of the price fixing barn dance breathes a call across the meadows for Si, booted and spurred."

"And thus while the house is selling the prosperity of the nation for the votes necessary to perpetuate its unnecessary existence, the orgy in the senate is even worse. Over there is but one fiddle with one string, and one tune is played upon it. It is the "investigation blues."

"Prosperity may break down under heavy taxation, business may stagnate, unemployment may come upon the land, but all the world must know what reformed horse thieves and unreformed bootleggers have learned from those who now safely and conveniently sleep in the bosom of Abraham."

MAYOR'S CRITICISM OF COURTS ELICITS REPLY FROM CO. PROSECUTOR

Exception to recent criticism by Mayor Harry E. Heaton of the action of local court officials in paroling prisoners and showing leniency was taken today by Prosecuting Attorney Joseph B. Shepler.

Prosecutor Shepler declared today "We wish that those who are so quick to criticise would first come to us with their criticism. After they had learned the inside fact of the case probably they would see fit to withold their objections."

He laid particular emphasis on the statement that "it is the stupid courts that make criminals. Our penitentiarys, reformatories and industrial schools are filled with persons the majority of whom, if they had been shown leniency, would have made good.

"Cases in our court," the prosecutor added, "will be disposed of as we in our best judgment see fit to dispose of them, and criticisms by other courts should not be made without entire justification. By working together in harmony and co-operation much more will be accomplished."

The prosecutor said that since he has been in office only one who was paroled failed to make good.

U. S. NOT TO COLLECT DEBT FRANCE HOLDS

Administration Officials Disapprove of Plan Put Forth by French Press

POINCARE BLAMED

Separate Settlement by Each Nation Favored in This Country

BY KENNETH CLARK

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Administration officials and congressional leaders today threw cold water over semi-official suggestions from France that Germany be compelled to pay the $4,000,000,000 French war debt to the United States in connection with the reparations settlement.

Such a proposal was regarded as inimical to speedy and amicable settlement by the inter-allied debt problems and as imposing upon Germany a financial burden that might result in the absolute economic collapse of the German state.

Voicing the opinion of the American debt funding commission, of which he is a member, Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, used emphatic language in discussing the suggestion and added that the

Frederick Asks Patent on Lift for Hospitals

W. W. Frederick, this city, partner in the People's undertaking establishment has applied for a patent on his new device for use in hospitals.

Frederick has returned from Washington D. C. where he demonstrated his invention before a patent attorney and draftsmen. Frederick said that they said it is practical and that there is nothing like it on record.

The device, Frederick says, is to be used in hospitals for raising patients in their beds so that their bed clothing may be changed, and for moving patients into another room and without the attendants having any lifting to do.

COOLIDGE IS VICTOR IN N.J.

TRENTON, N. J., April 23. — President Coolidge won a sweeping victory over Senator Hiram Johnson in Tuesday's Republican presidential primary according to returns today from over 2,000 of the state's 2,560 election districts. Johnson apparently failed to win a single one of the states 31 delegates to the national convention.

With only 479 districts to be heard from, the vote was: Coolidge 99,274 Johnson 10,457.

In the Democratic primary, Gov. George S. Silzer won an almost unanimous victory in his race. He was unopposed but a number of voters wrote in the name of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

Practically the only important fight in the Republican primary was that of the Anti-Saloon League against United States Senator Walter E. Edge, and former Gov. E. C. Stokes, Coolidge delegates at-large. They ran practically even with the rest of the ticket.

Death believed to have been caused by heart trouble, claimed Dr. R. A. Goudy, aged 62, prominent Newcomerstown physician some time before 9:30 o'clock, Wednesday morning.

He was found dead in his bed at 9:30 this morning by Dr. George Kistler.

Dr. Gowdy, who was employed as physician for the Newcomerstown Clow Plant, had called Dr. Kistler by phone and told him he was not feeling well and for him to give him medical attention when he arrived home.

When Dr. Kistler arrived at the Goudy home Main-st, Dr. Goudy's mother-in-law, not knowing that Dr. Goudy had come home ill, told the physician that no one was ill at the residence. Dr. Kistler went back to the Clow plant to see whether Dr. Goudy had gone home. When Dr. Kistler returned to the Goudy residence he found the physician dead in his bed.

He had practiced medicine in Newcomerstown for the past [illegible] years. Since the late World war the doctor had been acting as private physician among the employes at the J. B. Clow & Sons plant in Newcomerstown.

R. A. Goudy was born and reared in the vicinity of Newcomerstown. He served in the World war in the medical corps.

His wife had been visiting in New Philadelphia at the time of his death. The widow and one brother John Goudy, of Newcomerstown survive.

FRUIT BUDS UNINJURED

No damage, it is believed, was done to Coshocton-co fruit buds by last night's frost.

The considerable frost was reported from all sections of the county this morning, no low temperatures were recorded. The lowest reading in Coshocton, as reported by the Ohio Service Company, was 33 degrees, at 5 a. m.

County Agent Musgrove stated this morning that a temperature of 33 degrees would do no damage to fruit buds even in the present tender stage of early peaches and early plums. Nor are fruit prospects endangered by a freeing temperature, 32 degrees.

The temperature must drop to 28 degrees to injure fruit buds, the county agent stated, and a temperature of 25 degrees to kill all fruit.

Kiwanians Hear Senator Garver

Members of the Kiwanis club, at the noon luncheon of the club today, heard an address on "Laws and Constitution," delivered by Senator W. F. Garver of Holmes-co.

Mr. Garver explained in the course of his speech why so many bills fail to become laws. Some of the bills presented, he said, have no merits, some are duplicates, and some fail to pass because the authors do not press their passage. He told of the progress of a bill from the time it is introduced till it becomes a law or is discarded.

Remindful of the fact that two proposed measures, the old age pension and state income tax, will probably come to a vote again in two years, attention was called to these two bills by Mr. Garver. He did not speak with favor or disfavor of either bill.

Mr. Garver explained why the constitution is the bulwark of our liberties. He declared that if the courts hold a law unconstitutional the general assembly can change the law, or the people can change the constitution.

Senator Garver addressed the high school students in chapel this morning in the Central building. His talk was on, "Workings of the Senate."

In addition to Senator Garver's address, Frank Jones of this city entertained the students with a few vocal selections.

The students also presented some stunts advertising their senior high school carnival which is scheduled in the Central building Friday and Saturday of this week.

BERNICE AMES SEEKS DIVORCE

Gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty are charged in a petition for divorce filed in probate court today by Bernice Ames vs. Grover Ames.

Mrs. Ames stated in her petition that she and the defendant were married at Coshocton on May 15, 1917, and have no children.

The defendant used abusive language toward her, the plaintiff avers.

She declares that he refused to support her and to furnish her with the common necessities of life. Her husband left her on November 14, 1922, and has not returned since, the plaintiff alleges.

She asks that at the final hearing she be awarded permanent alimony.

Attorney Lloyd S. Leech represents the plaintiff.

TRANSACTION IN OIL STOCK IS DISCLOSED

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Wm. A. Wallace, New York, counsel for William Boyce Thompson, former chairman of the ways and means committee of the Republican national committee, in a letter to the senate public lands committee today told of additional transactions of Thompson in Sinclair Oil stock. On January 13, 1922, an associate of Thompson on the Russian Red Cross mission bought 450 shares of Sinclair Consolidated under the impression that Thompson was a director in the company. When Thompson learned of this, he exchanged Texas Gulf Sulphur stock for the 450 shares of Sinclair so that his associate would not lose money on the oil stock, Wallace said.

Wallace denied that any member of Thompson's family, other than Thompson himself, ever owned Sinclair stock.

PRESIDENT TO ADDRESS PUBLISHERS

NEW YORK, April 22.—President Calvin Coolidge arrived in New York early today on his second trip away from Washington since he took office. He will deliver an address before American Newspaper Publishers in session at the Hotel Waldorf this afternoon. The president and his party left his car at the Pennsylvania station about 8 o'clock and went directly to the Waldorf for breakfast. He is expected to remain at the hotel until after his speech, when he will depart at once on the return trip to Washington.

Only a comparatively few persons were on the streets when the president was driven from the station to the Waldorf. There was scattering applause as the president's car ran open one—passed across Broadway. The president was attired in a frock coat and silk hat and was quickly recognized by the early risers.

The famous Oscar-Waldorf chef greeted the president at the door of the hotel and escorted him to a private dining room where breakfast was served.

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, Col. Michael Friedsam of New York, Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman of New York, Frank Stearns, of Boston, the president's personal adviser, and William M. Butler, his pre-convention manager had breakfast with Mr. Coolidge. Michael Stearn of New York was among the early visitors who paid their respects to the president.

Sixth St. Theatre

Ohio State Journal comments on LeRoy, Talma and Bosco, magicians who appear at the Sixth Street theatre tonight:

With a thousand and one tricks, some old, most of them new to Columbus, LeRoy, Talma and Bosco opened a week's engagement at the Lyceum Theater yesterday, giving a performance of varied appeal. Magicians and illusionists are very much like wrestlers, in that each is "the greatest in the world." We don't know whether Servais LeRoy can be given this title, but certain it is, he is one of the cleverest men of his profession in the world today. In addition an ingratiating personality enables him to make friends with the audience even before he begins to baffle them.

Miss Talma is a wizard with coins. She performs other tricks and assists in several startling illusions, but it is with the coins that she stars. Her manipulation of not one, but dozens of coins last night brought forth several rounds of applause. Bosco is the comedian of the troupe, though no mean magician himself.

The Hindu rope trick and basketting a woman, the latter a variation of the sawing a woman in half illusion, are featured by this company under the guidance of M. LeRoy. But there are card tricks, and the usual rabbits, ducks and chickens are brought out of pockets and frying pans. LeRoy is also a marvel with cards, working right down in the audience, yet working so cleverly as to bewilder those nearest him.

Charles Marina has a divertising act with a shadowgraph machine, while Dave Evans, a boy from the audience contributed no little to the general amusement by his services on the stage.

THAW VERDICT IS EXPECTED TUESDAY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 22.—Harry K. Thaw probably will know his fate by nightfall.

The plea of the celebrated prisoner that he is sane and should be given his freedom will be in the hands of a jury today, according to indications this morning.

The jury's verdict is supreme. What the jurymen and the judge decide in the present trial, will determine whether Thaw is to be immediately given his liberty or forced to stay in the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous diseases.

Thaw predicted he will be released.

"I'll be out soon," he said confidently.

In the event of an adverse verdict, it was indicated that Thaw would appeal to the state supreme court.

Thaw has made a good impression in court, in the opinion of his attorneys. He has appeared normal and self contained, sitting in the front row of the spectators seats, beside his 82 year old mother, Mrs. Mary C. Copley Thaw, who is helping her son, now aged 53, in his fight for freedom.

Counsel opposing Thaw's release renewed their efforts to shatter the contention that Thaw is sane when court was resumed this morning. Arthur G. Dickson, representing trustees of the Thaw estate, continued his address to the jury, which was interrupted by adjournment late yesterday.

The Buckeye Foot Warmers, a popular and snappy orchestra of this city will entertain members of the Roscoe Alumni Association at their banquet in the New Y. W. rooms, Odd Fellow building, Main st. Friday evening of this week.

The banquet will be served at 7 or 7:15 p. m. All members are urged to be in the rooms at 7:15 p. m. if possible. Following the banquet period a short program consisting of vocal selections, readings, and music and initiatory ceremonies will be rendered. At 8:30 p. m. the orchestra will entertain the members.

There are 14 to be graduated from the Roscoe high school next Thursday evening, one of the largest classes since 1917. From early reports some of the elder members from out-of-the-city are to be here that evening.

All graduating classes from the first in 1895 to the 1912 class are expected to be represented.

It is the plan of the program committee to make this year's program and banquet the best in the history of the association. In the recent issue of the "Rosconian" the complete list of graduates from each class up to the present one is mentioned.

The big feed will be served by the local members of the Y. W. C. A.

NEW TREATMENT FOR SWOLLEN GLANDS

People who have enlarged glands ought to know that by freely applying Emerald Oil daily the gland can be brought to a head and all the germs and poisonous secretions discharged and destroyed.

Furthermore the opening will heal surely and speedily and without leaving an unsightly scar. People who desire this treatment should secure a two ounce original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength) and use as directed. It is a very concentrated preparation and a small quantity lasts a long time. It is also used to reduce swollen veins and dissolves goitre. Wimmer-Arnold Co., 2 Temple Bldg.

FRIENDS OF SEN. WHEELER COME TO HIS DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The senatorial "trial" of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana sponsor of the Daugherty investigation, took a new turn today when Republican leaders of Montana came to his defense.

New evidence, defending Wheeler against an indictment by a federal grand jury in Montana was turned over to the Borah committee by men who were his lifelong political foes. Tossing aside their partisan enmities, these Republican leaders were said to have forwarded to the committee evidence which in part corroborated Wheeler's charges that his indictment was a "frame up" against him.

This information, which undoubtedly will create a sensation when made public, was communicated by S. C. Ford, former attorney general of Montana and a Republican leader of that state it was said to have been supported by Dr. O. M. Langstron, Republican national committeeman from Montana.

As a result, both men were subpoenaed by the Borah committee to tell their story at Wheeler's public trial. The committee meanwhile postponed further hearings, until these witnesses arrive from Montana.

Poultry Show To Be Held At Co. Fair

Plans have been outlined by the Coshocton-co Poultry Association for holding the 1924 annual county poultry association show in conjunction with the 1924 Coshocton-co fair, in October.

Tho the annual county show will be conducted in a manner similar to shows of former years, according to officers of the association, all birds belonging to members of the association will be entered thru the county fair board, and will be subject to its rules. Any person raising poultry in the county is eligible to exhibit at the county association show.

The association entries will, moreover, be judged in the open classes in competition with all other birds shown at the fair. The birds belonging to the association members will, however, be housed separately and will be fed and cared for by a superintendent from the association. Feed will be furnished free.

Poultrymen wishing to join the Coshocton-co Poultry Association are asked to communicate with Homer Darling, of Warsaw, Lance Hall, of Roscoe, or Charles Ligget, of West Lafayette.

ALLEN STILL IN LEAD IN POCKET BILLIARD MATCH

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 22.—Benny Allen, Kansas City, maintained his lead in the national pocket billiards title race by his defeat of Frank Taberski, Detroit, here last night 125 to 107.

Greenleaf kept Allen's leading margin where it had been by decisively defeated Andrew St. Jean, 125 to 53.

The local series of games will be completed tonight when they depart for Minneapolis. The final play off will be held in Detroit next week.

COAL INDUSTRY

break in the open market against machine mined coal. The economical mines are those with veins of coal from six to 12 feet deep, that permit the adoption of the most modern and efficient means of extracting coal.

At this time, when the demand for coal has been reduced from the war time level, and the pick-mined coal must be thrown onto the market along with the machine mined coal, owners of pick mines find they are hard pressed to meet the prices quoted by the machine mines. Slowly but surely they are being forced to curtail production and finally close down entirely.

"Putting it brutally," Mr. Green said, "this period of deflation means the survival of the fittest, and the sooner the weak ones are weeded out, the better it will be for all concerned."

The general business deflation which he mentioned would contribute to this process of elimination by still further reducing the demand for coal, he explained.

"The condition in Coshocton-co is typical of that existing all over the country. We have had bad times before in Coshocton-co but I believe this is the worst."

Mr. Green held out a great deal of hope for the mines of this county, however. He pointed out that they are near the centers of transportation and the large markets, and that they will have a decided advantage in this respect, when the period of deflation has passed. In the meantime, they will have to struggle along the best they can. The local market will hold up many. The quality of coal produced in Coshocton-co is excellent for domestic purposes, Mr. Green declared, and this fact will aid a great deal during the present hard times.

DAILY NEWS LETTER

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers At Home and Abroad

TODAY:
Helium Is Going Down
Architects to "Sign" Work.

By FRANK SAVAGE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Before purchasing a dirigible for private pleasure purposes, it might be advisable to run a calculating eye down the right-hand side of these figures:

Helium is being produced at a relatively cheap price at present, only six and a half cents a cubic foot, while last year it was up around ten cents per cubic foot, according to figures just made available by the American Chemical Society.

Since airships like the Shenandoah use about five million cubic feet, the cost of the gas is now a mere $325,000, while hitherto it amounted to approximately $500,000.

If one has a few hundred thousand to get rid of he can invest it in a helium - inflated dirigible and then land on some nice convenient picket fence or spear pointed flagstaff.

Use of helium exclusively—for the present at least—in Government and commercial airships is urged, it being declared that the last three grave disasters have occurred to ships using hydrogen and that the accidents have been primarily due to fire.

In the reference to the relative safety of hydrogen and helium the society's statement declares "it is time for the facts to be thoroughly known and appreciated." Hydrogen could be used later for "freighters" when we are more accustomed to aerial navigation, it is suggested.

The statement points out that the United States has a virtual monopoly on this valuable new gas, that there is a "belt" through the Southwest and the Middle West dotted with wells from which the gas containing helium can be extracted in commercial quantities, and that this advantage should be conserved by the United States through prohibiting exportation. The wells are regarded an invaluable possession in wartime, since helium is non-inflammable and therefore immune to incendiary shells.

Since helium costs considerable money, some ingenious methods have been devised to compensate for changing loads and other variable factors affecting the "lift" in lighter-than-air craft, other than by allowing the gas to escape into the air.

One of the most successful is the condensation of water from the engine exhaust.

The gaseous discharges from the engines, containing a considerable percentage of watery vapor, are run through long, thin-walled, air-cooled pipes. The water is collected and remains on the ship, thus eliminating one loss of "ballast."

If "father's shoes will soon fit Willie," or grandpop knows "there's going to be a change in the weather" by the way his corns feel, you can bet on it that father and grandfather are both wearing "mineral" instead of "vegetable" leather, according to a statement by two Milwaukee chemists who have been investigating the subject.

One kind of leather expands and contracts with the weather several times more than another kind, the chemists assert.

The American Institute of Architects has started a movement for members to label their work henceforth, the same as do sculptors and artists.

"I wonder how many people out of a thousand know who the great author of the Woolworth Building is?" asks one who favors the plan.

No doubt many of us would reply:

"Mr. McMCXM!"

PREACHER PROVES MOONSHINE POISON

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 23.—Rev. W. G. Schaeffer, pastor of the United Brethren Church here, is giving a series of lectures against illegal liquor, accompanying them with intensive demonstrations of the physical dangers that lurk in the new made "moon."

Several hundred members of his congregation were allowed to see and smell moonshine stills confiscated by officers, and also were permitted to sniff the finished product.

The exhibits, placed upon a platform in the church, included evil-smelling stills made out of old milk cans, with a scum of fusel oil on the bottom and decayed material clinging to the sides, and vial samples of the "hooch" as it is presented for sale.

Rev. Schaeffer declared, after his first lecture and demonstration that it probably was one of the most successful services ever held in his church.

"I believe there were many skeptics with the idea that moonshine might be all right, if they wanted to drink it," he said, "but they were apparently immediately converted to the belief that it is and always will be the rankest kind of poison."

COOLIDGE SPEECH RECEIVES COMMENDATION IN ENGLAND

BY DAVID M. CHURCH

LONDON, April 23.—President Coolidge's speech, especially his plea for the Dawes reparations plan and general disarmament was warmly welcomed in England. It was admitted in official circles that Premier Ramsay MacDonald is preparing to support any disarmament movement the United States may make.

Some newspapers intimated that the speech might be regarded a warning to France not to attempt to wreck the Dawes plan nor any future attempt to bring about a disarmament conference.

In this connection the Daily News said:

"President Coolidge's announcement of his readiness to call another conference to consider disarmament and to codify international law is of the highest importance. It may be safely said that if any serious attempt is undertaken by the French government to torpedo this new peace effort with all its hopeful consequences implied in the good news from America, the isolation of France will be final and complete."

Premier MacDonald has been anxious for a definite statement that the United States supports the Dawes plan. He has felt ever since the plan was published that a statement in its support by America would aid in bringing France into line.

Premier MacDonald feels with President Coolidge that the reparations problem, which has disturbed Europe for so many years must be settled first.

Newspapers gave conspicuous first page display of the speech. The Manchester Guardian, the chief liberal newspaper outside of London commented:

"So long as France remains nervous about the security of her eastern frontier diplomacy will continue because there will be armaments everywhere in Europe. But with a real settlement of reparations her ground for fear will be immensely diminished. Let us deal with reparations and rejoice that Mr. Coolidge's speech shows how keen the United States is in wishing to help out in straightening up the after-war mess."

The Daily Chronicle, personal organ of former Premier David Lloyd George commented:

"It is a weighty voice."

The Daily Chronicle suggests further discussion upon the proposed world conference for regulation of air warfare and to work out an agreement to protect civilian populations.

CRYSTAL ACTION THEORIES STATED
Heat and Electrolytic Theory Advanced for Crystal Operation
By CARLTON E. BUTLER,
Radio Engineer.

Scientists have advanced several theories as to the operation of the crystal detector used for radio work. It is a well known fact that the crystal has the property of allowing the current to flow well in one direction and to prohibit or limit its flow in the opposite direction.

One theory is that there is always a certain amount of moisture on the top of the crystal. This moisture forms an electrolytic action with the crystal forming a small battery. This is, of course, very minute. The direction of the voltage developed is always the same.

Any radio wave impressed on the crystal must flow for one half of the cycle in the same direction that the minute battery goes and so be aided and allowed to pass through the crystal. The other half of the cycle is in the opposite direction to the flow of current from the minute battery and will thus be opposed.

This is one way of accounting for the high resistance to the flow of current in one direction and the low resistance in the opposite direction.

The other theory is called the heat theory. It explains the action of the crystal in a similar manner in that the surface of the crystal contains a minute battery but differs as to the method of the origin of the small current.

It is a well-known principle of electricity that if two dissimilar metals are placed together and heated, a small voltage will be generated between them. It is assumed that the passage of the radio currents through the small contact on the crystal generates sufficient heat to make possible the thermo-couple generated direct current.

This small current generated acts in the same way as the small battery current assumed in the electrolytic theory in allowing the current to flow easily in one direction and with difficulty in the other. Neither theory has been definitely accepted but either may be true, and it helps us understand the action of the crystal in radio work to a great extent.

Cambridge Still Feared in Relay

(By DAVIS J. WALSH)
International News Service Sports Editor.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 23.—In spite of the loss of W. S. Bristowe, a young man capable of stepping a half mile in the exceedingly hasty time of one minute 55 seconds, athletic sharps today were disposed to view with alarm the scheduled attempt of Cambridge University to beat Penn State, Georgetown and the world record for two miles at the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival on Saturday. It was the general thot that the British can and will run so close to the record that only a micrometer will guage the difference.

Bristowe's attack of muscular rheumatism has proved something of a tactical kick behind the ear of the English yet they have mustered a substitute in Starr who may run within several seconds of Bristow's best time. Therefore Cambridge is still dangerous.

The team, as present constituted, is made up of Lowe, who has done 1:56 3-5 on the other side, Marshall and Orchard, a pair of 1:58 half milers and Starr, a two-minute man. If they run no better than their records, the British will come home in 7:52, almost four second behind the record. But no one expects them to merely equal their performances in England.

The comparatively light air of this country, usually adds from five to eight yards to the speed of each visiting half miler. If it does so in this case, Cambridge may upset all calculations and lead home both Georgetown and the championship Penn State team, regarded as the greatest two-mile relay combination that ever stepped on cinders.

BETTER WIVES AND MOTHERS

The emancipation of women as evidenced by the evolution in dress from steel stays that made a twenty inch waist and the long street sweeping skirts to the sports clothes of the present day has certainly had its effect upon the health of women. With proper attention to diet and exercise a race of better wives and mothers is assured by it. If, however, ailments develop as evidenced by irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness and irritability, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to overcome them. Thousands of women testify to its success.

Home runs were wafted out of the park in vain by Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinals losing the decision to the Pirates, 10 to 7, but maintaining their supremacy in the matter of substitutions.

Five thumbed fielding by Rice and Ruel enabled the Yankees to come from behind and beat the Senators, 6 to 3.

Carl Mays again brot the Reds home in front, gaining a 3 to 2 victory over the Cubs.

Sherry Smith not only left-handed the White Sox with some degree of success, but drove in the run that gave the Indians a 7 to 6 victory in the tenth.

Behind the natty pitching of Earl Whitehill, the Tigers swept thru the entire series with the Browns by winning the final, 8 to 4.

UHLE TO PITCH FOR THE INDIANS

CLEVELAND, April 23.—Clear and cool weather was dealt out here today for the first ball game of the season. After hiding out for the first part of the week to give the fans a thrill the old golden ball was out in all its brightness today.

After suffering two defeats out of three at the hands of the Detroit team at the opening of the season, the Cleveland Indians had "blood in their eye" today, determined on a victory.

George Uhle will be in the box for the Indians while Dauss will do the hurling for Detroit.

A crowd of 25,000 people is expected to hear the first "play ball" echo across the wide space of Dunn field at today's game.

Pennsy Governor Loses Race For Delegate's Seat

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 23.—Sweeping far ahead of Gov. Gifford Pinchot in his fight for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention, Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Norristown publisher, apparently defeated the state executive by more than 200,000 votes in the state primary of yesterday, first returns indicated today.

Early returns today indicated Strassburger would carry Adams, Allegheny, Armstrong, Berks, Delaware, Elk, Erie, Lebanon, Montgomery, Northampton, and Philadelphia counties. The greatest Strassburger strength was shown in the cities, but even a tremendous rural vote was not expected to offset the governor's losses.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 23.—Complete unofficial returns from Philadelphia's 48 wards today gave Ralph B. Strassburger, Norristown, publisher, an almost seven to one victory over Governor Pinchot in the fight for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention. The vote was: Strassburger 224,-320; Pinchot 34,212 giving Strassburger a lead of 190,107.

The other candidates for delegate-at-large with organization support polled comparatively the same vote as Strassburger.

Murderer Jumps Out of Window

CHICAGO, April 23.—James Petrucci, alias James De Joy, confessed slayer of Anna De Joy, the girl he married after deserting his wife and two children, plunged from a third story window in the detective bureau today and fatally injured himself. He was lifted from the sidewalk, his face crushed and several bones broken and died enroute to a hospital.

Detectives were making ready to take his picture when he pushed two of them out of his way, rushed to a window and plunged headlong thru the glass to the street.

OHIO COAL OUTPUT IS INCREASING

COLUMBUS, April 23.—Coal production in Ohio once more is on the upward trend. According to a report to state industrial relations Director Witter today, 40,726,215 tons were mined in the state during 1923 compared to the 1922 production, when only 27,526,555 tons were mined. An approximate 50 per cent increase is shown. The 1923 production was exceeded only thrice in the 35 years that statistics have been kept it was stated. In 1920 the peak was reached with 45,227,077 tons being produced.

Machine mined coal during 1923 resulted in a production of 35,830,-921 tons in the fields of the 30 Ohio counties where mining is the chief industry. This was a gain of 13,-977,727 tons over 1922. There were 2,056,918 tons of pick mined coal produced in the 1250 Ohio mines reported in 1923 as compared with 2,552,153 tons the previous year. Mining by the stripping process during 1923 showed a slump also.

Monthly reports from mines in the various districts indicate the 1924 production will exceed that of last year and possibly set a record for all times, it was said.

THE LADY AND THE LAMP PULL: A STUDY IN SIMILARITY

No doubt the lady in the picture has assumed this icy mien to forestall any misunderstanding on the part of her hostess who might mistake her for a lamp ornament and pull the tassel which hangs so temptingly below the hem of her skirt. After the first flush of amazement is over, we are prepared to admire the original and unique design of this evening dress of black Mirrokrepe, which disposes flat flounces of this fabric alternately on the dull and the shiny side "en barre" the entire length of the dress. The barrel stave effect that might otherwise be produced is cleverly obviated by a stripe of the crepe side of the fabric which bisects the lady, ending with the aforesaid big silk tassel, thus giving the appearance of a perpendicular checkerboard.

The crepe satin family, of which Mirrokrepe is a leading member have been socially very prominent in Paris this season, according to Henri Creange, the fashion authority. All of the great couturiers employ this material in their afternoon and evening models, and achieve very unique and interesting effects through the manipulation of the satin side and the crepe side in the same dress. One dress noted at the openings used alternate diamonds of the dull and shiny side, of white crepe satin, giving an original harlequin effect.

The evening mode as sponsored by Paris veers between two extremes, straight, severe bettless styles, like the one sketched, and very soft, feminine, fluffy dresses of the chiffon materials, with soft panels and long loops, much embroideries and many pearls and beads.

EVERY LITTLE SPRING COAT HAS A LINING NOT ITS OWN

This is the kind of coat which will accompany smart young women on their peregrinations this spring, whether these lead them to Europe or merely "downtown," for it is extremely practical without sacrificing an iota of style. It is made of Cote Centaur, a lustrous heavy ribbed silk of the bengaline type, in a rich fawn color, and lined with hunter green duvetyn, which also makes the trimmings. This idea of lining silk coats with duvetyn or kasha originates in Paris. It replaces the flat fur linings which were used with reversible silk coats in the winter and is a style tendency which can be heartily recommended for it will probably save a good many intrepid damsels from spring colds.

Coats, Henri Creange writes us from Paris, have nearly the same line for afternoon and evening wear, straight as usual, sometimes with a low flounce cut on the cross in front. The newest show a tendency to fullness at the back, such as the present example. Indeed the whole coat, while maintaining the straight line demanded by the mode, is pleasantly roomy and ample, allowing for the pleats and scarfs of spring and summer dresses.

This coat presents quite a different aspect in the front. The right side is crossed way over, raised a trifle, and held (not fastened) at the left almost to the seam, and the hem is cut slanting and slightly raised. The high rolled collar is decidedly Directoire in effect. "Frogs," which during the past few decades have been relegated to the decoration of men's smoking jackets and dressing gowns have here returned to a very prominent and important position in trimming the slashes of the coat and sleeves.

the finance committee of the city council at that place as a method of meeting the city's deficit, more than $100,000. Revenue from these sources has been estimated at $200,000 a year.

The Youngstown plan is along the same line as that used in Marion, Ohio. It was considered by the local council for a time but was discarded when doubt as to its legality arose. It is understood that suit has already been filed to test its legality, and it was to avert any such obstruction that the Coshocton council struck it from their list.

The council is now favorably considering the adoption of the occupational tax as collected in Cincinnati, President Gaumer declared. In that city the tax is assessed entirely upon business, and not upon the laborer. This, Mr. Gaumer believes, is practical and, with the tax for street lighting assessed upon the foot frontage of each property, and the tax upon automobiles and delivery wagons, will entirely wipe out the city's deficit in a few years.

At the next regular meeting of the council, which will be held Monday evening, April 28, one or all of the plans named above will be passed, it was predicted by the president of council.

A dam that is being built across a river in Tunisia is practically a modern counterpart of one erected by Romans more than 2000 years ago to supply the city of Carthage with water.

THE DISCONTENTED MOUSE.

NIPPY MOUSE crept out of the hole under the kitchen floor and gazed around. That had seen the extent of his travels ever since he had opened his wee little eyes—up from the cellar into the kitchen—and it had long since lost all excitement for Nippy. He wished he could move out into the fields, anywhere just to get away from the hole that led from the cellar into the kitchen.

He crept across the kitchen floor and out of the screen door into the great wide porch. Nothing happened and down he scooted, off the steps and down the road toward the woods.

"You had better go back home where you belong," advised Chatty Chipmunk. "You're a house-mouse, not a pine-mouse like your cousin."

Nippy Mouse flipped his long tail and twitched his long ears.

"Have I a cousin by that name?" he asked. Then without waiting to hear the answer, he asked where this cousin lived. Chatty Chipmunk told him. "Oh, in the woods!" laughed Nippy Mouse. "Then I shall go and live with her. I have always loved life in the woods." And away he trotted in search of his cousin, Mrs. Pine-mouse.

Everyone he saw, Nippy Mouse asked about Mrs. Pine-mouse. Chippy Field-mouse told him that Mrs. Pine-mouse was at home and that he would go over with him to see her, and the two soon reached Mrs. Pine-mouse's house.

Chippy Field-mouse rapped at the doorway, which was a wee little hole in the ground almost hidden by bushes. At first, Nippy Mouse didn't like the idea of going down into the ground, but his cousin laughed and so Nippy went down the long tunnel into the funny little dirt house.

"Well, I never knew before that any of my relatives lived under the ground," he laughed. "It's nice but——"

Nippy Mouse looked around at the wee little chamber with its many, many doorways and thought of his one knothole from the cellar to the kitchen. He lifted up the soft grasses, where Mrs. Pine-mouse raised her young ones, and shook his head.

"Where's the kitchen?" he asked, and both Mrs. Pine-mouse and Chippy Field-mouse laughed.

Mrs. Pine-mouse took Nippy Mouse to another hole close to his little house. Here he had stored away tender roots of trees, bits of bark and a few bush twigs.

"But where are your cheese and bread?" asked Nippy Mouse. "Do you keep that somewhere else?"

Neither Chippy Field-mouse nor Mrs. Pine-mouse knew what cheese and bread were, and Nippy Mouse had to explain as best he could that he loved bread and cheese better than anything else.

"Why, all you have to do is to go up to the kitchen of the house under which I live and help yourself," said Nippy Mouse. "We don't have to destroy trees and bushes to get our food."

"You had better go back home then and be content," snapped Mrs. Pine-mouse. "You never were meant to rough it like Chippy and myself."

She bade her cousin good-by, went into her little house and shut the door.

That's just what Nippy Mouse did do. He went back home. And you may be sure he was glad to get there. No one ever heard him complain again about his home under the kitchen floor.

What Lillian Did to Dicky and Dicky to Madge.

"SPEAKING of telepathy!" Lillian gibed as the telephone rang just as I had predicted Dicky would call up.

"It may not be Dicky," I said as I rushed to the telephone with the thought which is ever in my mind when absent from home. "Mother Graham may be telephoning. Perhaps Junior is——"

"Better let me answer," she said quietly.

She had reached the telephone before me, and already had her hand on the receiver. I nodded an assent to her questioning eyes, and after a second, her careless "Hello, Dicky!" banished all anxiety from my mind, and I prepared to enjoy what I could hear of the conversation.

"Yes, I'm here, naturally," she caroled, evidently in answer to a perfunctory question. "They haven't put an extension 'phone from your apartment to an East River motor boat, as yet, and that's the only way I could have answered you before now. What's that? Indeed I won't!" This with a great show of indignation. "I'm having too good a time. You know how I adore talking to you, Dicky-bird."

She turned to me, whispering the words "pippin of a grouch," with one hand closed over the mouthpiece, and then listened attentively.

Lillian's Proposition.

"Yes, she's here, and listen to me, old dear. We're both tired to death and we're going to crawl into the bed in your room. We'll let down the davenport in the living-room, but Allah help you if you make any noise. Oh! You're not coming home to-night! So much the better.

"Oh! by the way, Dicky-bird," she caroled, "I was asking Madge just now if you people wouldn't sublet your apartment to me while you are gone to Michigan with your mother, and Madge is at the farm. Your spouse averred that she was willing and that she thought you would be, for you were speaking of subletting just before you went out tonight. How about it?"

She waved her free arm around her head in a mirthful gesture, the while she grinned joyously as she listened.

"Fie! Fie! pish-tush!" she admonished him after a little. "Do you want to have your telephone service discontinued? Such language! What's the matter? Don't you consider me a responsible tenant? Oh! you weren't talking to me. No, I don't very well know it. I've heard you in action before, dearest, as you very well know. Call Madge? Surely."

She turned to me, and held out the receiver. I took it and hoped that my voice was steadier than my fingers as I spoke Dicky's name.

"What's the big idea?" he snapped. "Confiding all your troubles to old Lil?"

Dicky Is "Peeved."

"Oh, no, indeed, not all!" I caroled, salving my conscience with the fact that there were several minor details of our disagreement which I had omitted. "But she wants the apartment, and you said you wanted to sublet it, so——"

"What d'ye mean sublet? I never said any such thing," he growled, and I smiled at the familiar phrase.

Dicky always forgets three-fourths of the things he says when he is angry, and furiously denies them if they are called to his attention.

"Really?" I cooed. "I certainly must go to an ear specialist, for I was sure I heard you say it."

"Oh, go to the——" Dicky began, then changed his objurgation to a heavily satiric inquiry: "What do you propose to charge old Lil?"

"A good stiff price," I returned cheerily. "There are so many extra attractions here, you know."

The last sentence slipped in. I really had not meant to utter it, nor did I mean anything especial by it. But it evidently found a vulnerable spot in my husband's temper.

"That's about the cheapest piece of talk I ever heard from you!" he stormed. "This settles it. I was going to beg your pardon, but now I'll be —— if I——"

"Suppose I beg yours, instead," I said softly.

I was sure that no one save Dicky would hear me, for Lillian, with her usual tact, had slipped out of the room when I had taken the telephone.

"Don't trouble yourself," came the ironic reply, and then I heard the unmistakable click of the telephone receiver as he slammed it on the hook.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23.

An active and prosperous day is forecast from the prevailing lunar transits. With the luminaries in trine aspect, fortified by friendly positions of the powerful planets, Saturn and Mars, there should be substantial growth in all undertakings, both those long established and those inaugurated as new enterprises. It is a particularly favorable time for those in the employment of others to seek advancement or for others to push for honors or preferment.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a successful and prosperous year, with substantial growth in business. Promotion or preferment is probable for those in the employment of others if they are undeniably deserving and for those seeking the favor of persons in authority. A child born on this day will be industrious, resourceful and energetic and will make a success of its undertakings either in the employment of others or in business for itself.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Being Happy at Sixty

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

SHE'S sad and she's sorry, and the worst of it is, she's old, too.

Sixty years old and very tired and rather sick of the thing we love to call life.

And her husband—Oh, he isn't sick of life at all!

He's delighted with it, or has been, up to the last few months.

He's sixty-five years old and he dresses like a young fellow of thirty or thirty-five. He belongs to a fairly good club, plays golf on Saturdays and Thursdays and is rather liked among his business associates.

Down-town he's generous and good-natured, at home he's stingy and cross.

Down-town he's a great story teller and nobody laughs so hard or so easily as he.

She Should Stick

At home his wife is astonished if he says more than good morning and good evening and what on earth have you been doing, you and that cook of yours to run the gas bill up so high.

But that isn't the worst of it.

The man is silly about women—every woman he sees, except his wife. His wife has always known and always tried to hide it, but lately his affairs have been so numerous that she feels as if she couldn't stand it another minute, and the man is ill and he's quitting business and going to retire on a fairly decent income and she feels as if she couldn't stand it another day.

What shall she do? Divorce him and start out in the world all alone?

That's what she has written to ask.

What would you tell her if you were in my place?

I'll tell you what I'm going to tell her: I'm going to tell her to stick to her home and to her husband. What, start out to face the world alone—at sixty?

What would she do, where would she go?

It's all very well for her indignant friends to tell her that they wouldn't stand it for a minute, but how many of them would put a roof over her head and food into her mouth if she did leave it, after all?

When everything is said and done, everything good and everything bad, this husband of hers is the very best friend she has in the world.

He knows he's doing wrong, he knows he's made and is making a bitter mistake. The way to deal with him is to go right on acting as if he was the best husband in the world. Don't bore him with too much affection, don't fret about him, don't pay any attention to him, except to see that his home is well looked after and that he can find comfort and peace of mind there—if he can't find them anywhere else on earth. Go and see your friends, have little parties of your own, read interesting books, cultivate a garden.

Make Life Fine

What a pity she hasn't children of her own, poor woman. Well, never mind, there must be some other children somewhere she can love and help. Live your own life, my dear unhappy woman, and live it not bitterly, not sadly, not angrily, but calmly and naturally and normally and your husband will see that you are the one real thing in his life, after all.

It will not be long now till all the quarrels and the recrimination and the sadness will be over for you both.

Make these last few years something sweet and noble and fine.

Sixty and sixty-five—wouldn't you think they would have learned something at the School of Life—by now?

Marriage is something more than what some people call love. It is duty and sacrifice and real devotion to the interests of someone else.

Stop trying to be happy, my dear, and try to be sensible.

And even at sixty you will find happiness waiting for you around the corner.

How to Avoid Boils That Sometimes Mar Spring

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

WHEN the devil wanted to try the patience of a good man by afflicting his body with disease he selected as his agent a germ called the "staphylococcus." And since the days of Job innumerable members of the human family can testify to the fact that it was a truly devilish choice.

A boil seems a very small thing—when it is the other man who has it. But when you, yourself, have been selected by the staphylococcus as the object of his attention it at once becomes a very annoying, and perhaps an extremely painful thing.

Like all other germs, the one responsible for boils is powerless to harm the human being until it finds a vulnerable point of attack.

In order to do its work the germ must penetrate the tissues of the body. Simply for it to alight on the skin is insufficient. It must be rubbed in or scratched in, or otherwise made to penetrate into the substance of the skin. This is why boils usually come on the parts that are rubbed by the clothing, such as the neck or the buttocks.

Even with the aid of the clothing, or some other agent to assist the entrance of the germ into the skin, the staphylococcus cannot thrive and do its work unless it finds favorable conditions. That is, boils won't develop in a body that is in a perfectly healthy condition.

Therefore, the really effective way to avoid boils is not merely to dodge the germ, but to keep the body in such condition that the germ cannot thrive even if it finds a lodging there.

Boils are among the diseases we commonly associate with Spring. Spring boils are the aftermath of Winter habits in which rich food, late hours, indoor occupations and perhaps less frequent bathing than in other months loom large. All these things mean lessened vitality and lowered resistance to germs.

When the first sign of a boil appears it may sometimes be aborted by the application of iodine or other strong antiseptic.

If this treatment is unsuccessful and the boil develops, repeated applications of hot water or of camphor may reduce the inflammation. It is usually necessary, however, to incise the boil in order to promote the drainage.

The worst thing about a boil is that when once the infection gets into the system it seldom lets the victim off with the first boil. "Crops" of boils are likely to follow.

Should a second boil appear the general health should be investigated. The kidneys should be examined and the bowels watched.

When a tendency to boils has shown itself pastry and very rich food should be avoided and a simple diet preferred. Fresh air, sunshine, lots of water to drink and daily exercise to the point of perspiration, are essential. Lemonade or lemon-juice every day is good.

For a succession of boils the doctor should always be consulted. He will tell you if it is advisable to make a vaccine to control the disease.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

Brief Stories of the Men and Women Who Led the Way

By MARK STUYVESANT

The Origins of Timepieces and the First Clocks.

THE Popes of Rome are credited with accomplishing two great temporal works for mankind, apart from their spiritual duties as head of a great church. Pope Gregory the Great reformed the Julian calendar, and Pope Silvester Second invented the clock.

The ancients told time by various devices, including the sundial, the hourglass and the water-clock. The mechanical invention which tells the minute and the second by means of a train of wheels was first shown in 996, by Pope Silvester.

It was several centuries before the clock began to be useful, and its development was very slow. About 1288 a huge clock was placed in a bell-tower in Westminster and some unknown genius invented a system by which it struck the hours on silver bells. It is related that King Henry VIII, needing funds to pay some gambling debts, had the bells taken from the clock tower and melted into money.

All these early clocks were what is called "balance clocks." It was not until the seventeenth century that Galileo, one of the greatest minds of any age, whose name has come down to us as the discoverer of the movement of the earth around the sun, happened upon the isochronism of the pendulum. This means that a weighted and attached rod always vibrates in the same period. He made use of the principle to invent a little instrument to enable physicians to count the pulse of their patients. His son took the father's discovery and invented the pendulum of the clock.

During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries the possibilities of clock works interested many mechanical geniuses. All sorts of variations of clocks were invented. Some of them operated mechanical figures.

The kings and princes and cardinals of Europe installed in their palaces and church towers, enormous and ingenious clocks which told the minutes and the hours by the appearance of various figures passing in procession or appearing singly and performing such operations as striking a hammer or ringing a bell.

Particularly in Germany the clock manufacturers delighted to tell time by amusing and surprising devices. Some of these clocks are still in existence and crowds collect to see them perform.

The Swiss and the French vied with the German in clock manufacturing, but went in for more delicate and finer clocks than the ponderous German inventions. The ill-fated King Louis XVI, learned to be a clock maker himself, and he collected thousands of beautiful and astonishing examples of the art.

The cuckoo clock, a favorite wedding present in America, is a very simple example of the performing clocks of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

"That is very new," he said, holding the skirt up alluringly.

He let me slip it on over my crepe de chine dress and it fitted exactly.

"Just my luck," I moaned. "Now I'll have to buy it."

"But it's such a bargain," Leah reminded me.

"But I can't afford it," I returned.

"You're never young but once. Go on and," she urged.

About that time the bargain was sealed. Soon we were speeding back up the street, our skirt boxes in hand.

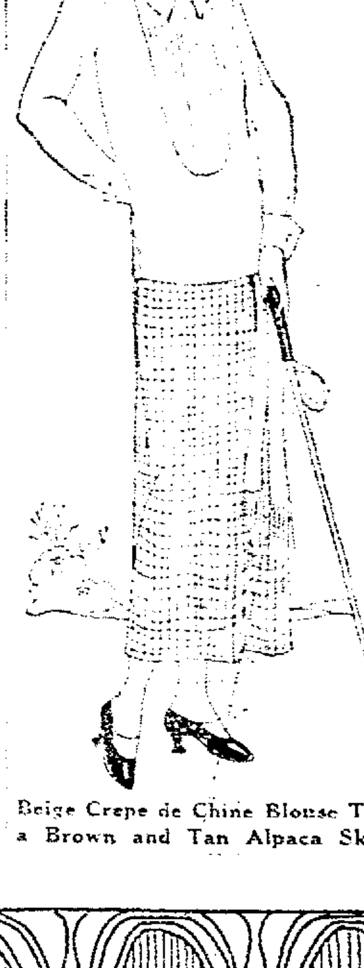

"We should make the overblouses ourselves," Leah suggested.

"A good idea," I assured her. "What kind are you planning to buy?"

"A black crepe de chine that fastens down the front and has a becoming turned-back collar," she said.

"I shall make a beige crepe de chine with a pleated skirt front and buttons at either hip. I planned about."

So we have decided to have a sewing bee sometime.

Solving the Problem of an Alluring Flower Garden for Summer Days.

THE lure of the garden is felt even in cities, where potted plants get unwonted care and are companioned by new ones when their owners begin to feel the call of Spring. Flower and seed catalogues add fuel to the flame. Window-boxes become the subject of most careful consideration.

The lay of the land and the amount of sunshine that we may count upon each day help settle the question of how much of our land is really available. Then it becomes a process of elimination in our list to see what we can and what we cannot have. If you are going in for flowers entirely, select those suitable for picking, those that will stand the sun and perhaps a little neglect in keeping them watered should you run off on weekend visits and leave them entirely to Mother Nature's care.

Sweet peas are a joy if they are kept picked every day. In August their stems are apt to grow short and they do not seem to flower as large and as freely, so it is wise to have something at that time to take their place.

Geraniums, of which there are several kinds, mignonette, heliotrope and one or more clumps of iris supply sweet flowers for cutting. Gar[illegible], phlox, candytuft and phlox are all [illegible]. The habit of bush [illegible] be known before planting, so that [illegible] for space can be made. If the garden is large, this condition does not have to be as carefully studied.

Succession of the blossoming plants should be known by the gardener so that we may enjoy continuous blooming of flowers during the entire season. In elaborate gardens, where bulbs come first, then foliage and flowering plants follow, this is always taken care of, but in the small garden the problem is frequently overlooked.

In planting a bed that runs along a walk or path, it is a good idea to plant the low growing things close to the edge, and so on, the highest in the back row. This makes an effective appearance. If a screen is needed a row of dahlias [illegible] of the last row. They will make a green background all Summer before they begin to blossom.

If there is room in the garden the herb bed is decorative as well as useful. In it sage, sweet marjoram, sweet basil, fennel, caraway, tarragon and capsicums may be planted. A pepper bed with a parsley border is another bed in the kitchen garden that is decorative, especially when the peppers begin to ripen.

Poppies planted along the hedge row are wonderfully decorative. They blossom so freely and are so fragile and colorful that one can overlook the sorry fact that they have no perfume. A corner of ragged sailors is always attractive. Cornflowers are pickable also, and there are so few blue flowers that they are valuable for decorative purposes.

In the way of garden equipment, a long-spouted watering-pot will be found convenient where the beds are wide. An all-steel trowel will last much longer than those with wooden handles, which are always coming off if the digging is a little dry and hard. The small weeder or digging fork is very useful around flower beds. The small wheel hoe is convenient if the beds are evenly planted so that the hoe can be run between the rows to cultivate the ground a bit before watering it.

A small, heart-shaped hoe is convenient to dig drills with if there are a lot of seeds to be planted. The small, all-brass, pointed dibbler is a great help in transplanting tomato, cabbage and other plants. We don't need many tools, but we do need the right ones, for they make the work light and easy.

Burying the Bill of Rights

THE extent to which Americans, in recent years, have allowed common, constitutional rights and liberties to be taken away from them is brot out in striking manner in a recent editorial of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch under the head, Burying the Bill of Rights. The editorial is as follows:

A memorandum printed by the Civil Liberties Union sums up as follows the post-war encroachments on the Bill of Rights: By statute the federal authorities have been given power to deport aliens for holding radical opinions, the postmaster-general is set up as a censor over the mails, and all "threats against the President" are construed as criminal. By supreme court decisions the postmaster-general is allowed to refuse second-class mailing privileges to periodicals in his judgment objectionable, union picketing and even organizing are laid open to injunction.

Thirty-eight states and four territories have adopted laws against "syndicalism, anarchy or sedition" which provide penalties for membership in certain organizations or the expression of certain opinions. Twenty-nine states have made it a crime to display a red flag in public. State courts have greatly limited the civil rights of strikers. Cities have passed ordinances forbidding the utterance of certain doctrines. The police of states and cities have extended their power to cover the suppression of meetings deemed inadvisable.

If the people of the United States ever miss the liberties they have discarded enough to try to resuscitate them they will have a vast amount of legislation and precedent to dig thru before they get down to the constitution.

Bobbed Hair and Blue Laws

PEOPLE look with horror on the tales of early colonial days when men and women were put to death for witch-craft. They express thanks that the country has progressed beyond the time when a code of laws was printed in a blue-covered pamphlet and became known as blue laws.

These laws provided penalties for many things that now seem trivial but occasionally the link between the past and the present is forged anew. An old Connecticut law made it criminal for a mother to kiss her infant on the Sabbath day. Sanitary laws now say it is criminal for anybody to kiss babies on any day.

Another Connecticut statute provided that "every male shall have his hair cut round according to a cap." There is not much difference in spirit between this and a ruling of the township trustees of Wabash county, Ind., that no woman will be employed as a teacher if she has bobbed hair.

From Pennsylvania comes a dispatch that all the teachers in one town have had an increase in salary of $100 a year, except those who have short hair. They are not to be permitted to have higher salaries unless they let their hair grow. It might be logical to assume that the teacher with short hair spends less time on it, and has more time in which to prepare lessons for her pupils.

If it is fair for school authorities to regulate the manner in which women wear their hair they might regulate men's habits and fashions.

Whiskers formerly seemed to be considered as an evidence of learning, but they mean no more now than a second lieutenant's mustache. If women wish to have their hair cut, evidently that is their own business.

Buying Votes With Public Money

THE present bonus bill, providing for a straight, paid-up insurance is likely to be passed by the senate at any moment. Democrats favor a plan which would provide a cash option for the ex-service man. However, they are supporting the Republican bill on the theory that it is more likely to survive a presidential veto.

Of course a bonus is a bonus whether it be cash or insurance. It is estimated that the bill will cost the people somewhere between $2,500,000,000 and $3,600,000,000. This is probably a somewhat lesser amount than would have been necessary under the bill which President Harding vetoed. Nevertheless, it is a rather tidy sum.

The bill passed the house with a whoop and that body would easily pass it over a presidential veto. The reason for this is sole and simple: Every representative who is not abandoning his seat must stand for re-election this year. Bonus advocates have organized votes. The senate has been more obdurate. Only 33 senators must apply at the polls this autumn for re-employment. The rest have either two or four years to build or mend their fences. Thus, the senate can show more independence.

In this respect, one cannot help but admire the stand taken by Senator William E. Borah, during the former bonus fight. This is illustrated by a letter which he wrote in answer to a telegram from a Legion post in his own state, censuring him for his opposition to the bonus. Part of the letter is as follows:

I observe in your telegram the threat which you impliedly make as to the future political punishment. It was wholly unnecessary for you to make this threat. It reflected no credit upon you and it has had no effect whatever upon me. When you come to that fight in which you propose to inflict punishment, you will doubtless be able to say many things in the way of censure upon my public services. But one thing neither you nor anyone else will be able to say, and that is that I ever sought to purchase political power by drafts upon the Public Treasury or that I chose to buy a continuation in office by putting $4,000,000,000 upon the bended backs of the American taxpayers.

I haven't much respect for the man who buys office, even tho he pays for it with his own money. But the most slimy feature which disgraces American politics is the man who buys office by paying for it with appropriations out of the public Treasury and charges his venal political obligations to the taxpayers.

If I thot this measure a proper one, I could and would vote for it. But believing, with thousands of ex-service men who have written me, that it is not a proper one, if I should vote for it it would be a simple matter of barter in which I use the people's money to buy somebody's vote: in which the account of my political expenses would be charged to the taxpayers.

Of course, you understand that I have at all times supported, and stand ready to support, any measure which will help the disabled veteran.

New York Day-by-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 23—The play in New York begins at 8:30 but the house is rarely seated until 9. Producers have fought this annoyance with every weapon at hand. They have tried to refuse to seat those who came after the curtain rose and a loss of steady patrons resulted.

They have tried advertising the curtain for 8:15 with no better result. Now the producers have combined in a series of advertisements to urge late comers to have consideration for the neighbors and for the distracting effect on the players. New York audiences have tired of the scramblings of dinner table arrivals.

It is in these things of perhaps minor consequence that New York is heartless. When the city is on pleasure bent it has no thought of its neighbor. Men and women who would shrink from saying a harsh word to an employe do not hesitate to disturb an entire aisle.

At the opening night of a recent play the curtain had to be held until 9:30. At 9 o'clock there were only 17 people in the house. They felt about as conspicuous as the sixth person who suddenly realizes he hasn't pyorrhea.

Lateness at the theatre is in the final analysis a species of swank—putting on the dog which New York is always ready to overdo. They want to be seen, the women to show their fine clothes and the men to display beautiful escorts.

Tell New York it cannot do any think and it will go to ridiculous lengths to show that it can. One of the most successful midnight supper clubs built up its patronage by constantly turning people away when there was really plenty of room.

They came back to show that they could get in. The club maintains its steady patronage in this fashion. It is always turning people away and when the news is bruited about the crowds flock there. Said the head-waiter: "If I permitted them to occupy a table anytime they desired they would soon tire of coming."

A well-seasoned bachelor who had the cynic's attitude for marriage for many years is now in a desperate dilemma. His heart was finally touched by Cupid's shaft but he did not fall in love with one girl but two. And they are twins. He is seen squiring them about everywhere. One does not go without the other nor does he desire it. According to the quidnuncs the girls are equally fond of the bachelor.

He was a faithful old cab horse who might be called Dolce Far Niente. He and his master for several years stood at the Fifth avenue Delmonico's before it closed. Now and then a well dined couple in a prankish moment engaged him for a brief trip but most of the time he had nothing to do. When Delmonico's closed he disappeared. Often I had talked to the driver at night of the days that are gone never to return. Yesterday I ran into him. He was working as a porter in a fruit store on Lexington avenue. "And what became of the old horse?" I asked. He showed me a receipt for his board for a month at a West street stable. In the summer he is going to take him up into Sullivan County pasturage.

That is of course a trivial incident yet today an old broken down man who has been employed by a big corporation for 22 years came to me. His daughter had been a maid in a hotel where I once lived. He had been given a week's notice. The paymaster told him frankly they needed a younger man. He had no money, no friends nowhere to go. And that is why somehow or other I cannot help but think of the old Delmonico cab driver and his broken down horse.

Nothing to me is so tragic as old age want. It does not reach the level of poignancy in small towns as it does here. New York has little use for the old who are penniless.

HEALTH BRINGS BEAUTY

When You're Rundown, Weak or Nervous, You Do Not Look Well

Cambridge, O.—"I was in a run-down state of health and was a nervous wreck. I was a change to my home work when I first learned of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription about a year ago. I had doctored but obtained no benefit. One bottle of the Favorite Prescription put me on my feet and strengthened me in every way. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proved to be an excellent tonic and nervine and I gladly recommend it as such to all women who have become weak and rundown." Mrs. Virginia Leslie, 115 Long St.

Right Word is Hard to Choose

Study of Dictionary is a profitable Habit for Business Men

Inability to choose the right word often places a speaker in an embarrassing position. Many business men lose much valuable time because they find it difficult to express what they want to say when they dictate their correspondence. Greater freedom and accuracy in speaking and writing can be acquired by studying a dictionary. A few minutes devoted to the study of words and their meaning each day will in a short time result in great benefit to any one who will put that practice to a test.

The Nea Universities Dictionary being offered to readers of this paper is particularly adapted to aid those who wish to acquire greater familiarity with the English language. It contains all the new words which have come into common and proper use in recent years. Its definitions are simple and accurate, making it possible to choose words that will best serve the purpose of correct speaking and writing. Many of the new words that have been brought into use through such specialized activities as war, aviation, golf, baseball and other forms of sports, have been conveniently classified in supplementary dictionaries.

SILENCE

I am silent as the dickens when the busy prohesmiths claim that I swiped some Dorking chickens from an old widowed dame. When the prohesmiths, all together, ask me if it's so, I discuss the woozy weather and predict both rain and snow. You will never see me digging to reply, though charges hurt, for defending and explaining make a man look cheap as dirt. Still the work of probing chickens, and the prohesmiths seek my door, asking "I ... those chickens in the balmy days of yore." While their spokesman bold enlarges on the evidence they've found, I might well deny their charges and my innocence expound, but a delegate denying always has a guilty air, and the people think he's lying, though he strings the truth with care. Better far to treat the rumor of its moral turpitude with an air of wound humor, shunning language ... and rude. So I don't discuss a feather of the hens they say I stole, but I talk about the weather and the groundhog's hole. If I'm guiltless it is certain that the truth will some day ..., and that truth will raise the curtain on a white and marvel ... If I really stole the chickens, silence is the safest course, ... the ... among the citizens with the honors of ... horse.

Daugherty to be Banqueted

COLUMBUS, April 23—Former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty is to be the honor guest at a "testimonial" dinner here tonight while, a few blocks away, U. S. Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican presidential aspirant, promises to reveal the oil mess in its "true light."

Those sponsoring the Daugherty dinner reported a great demand for tickets. A special loud speaker system was installed so that persons outside the banquet hall could hear the former cabinet member's address.

Johnson leaders, also, are anticipating a large audience for the California senator.

A new tea cart is equipped with a compartment either by gas or electricity in which food may be kept warm or even light cooking done.

WOMAN CONFESSES KILLING IN TRUNK MYSTERY.

Above: DEATH HOUSE & MRS. MARGARET WILLIS. Below: WHERE BODY WAS FOUND & BERT WEBSTER & HOWARD WILLIS. INT.

"I've killed a man and I want to tell you about it," was the calm statement of Mrs. Margaret Willis, comely matron of 38, when she surrendered to the Los Angeles police. She declared Dr. Benjamin Baldwin, 40, a prominent physician, had attempted to attack her in her home in the Kenwood apartments, and that she shot him to death. She put his body in her wardrobe trunk and kept it in her apartment over night. Next day she and Bert Webster, a friend, took the trunk to this lonely spot near Los Angeles and threw it down the cliff. Webster, who denied knowing what was in the trunk, is held as an accessory, while Mrs. Willis' 13-year-old son, Howard, and was held as a material witness.

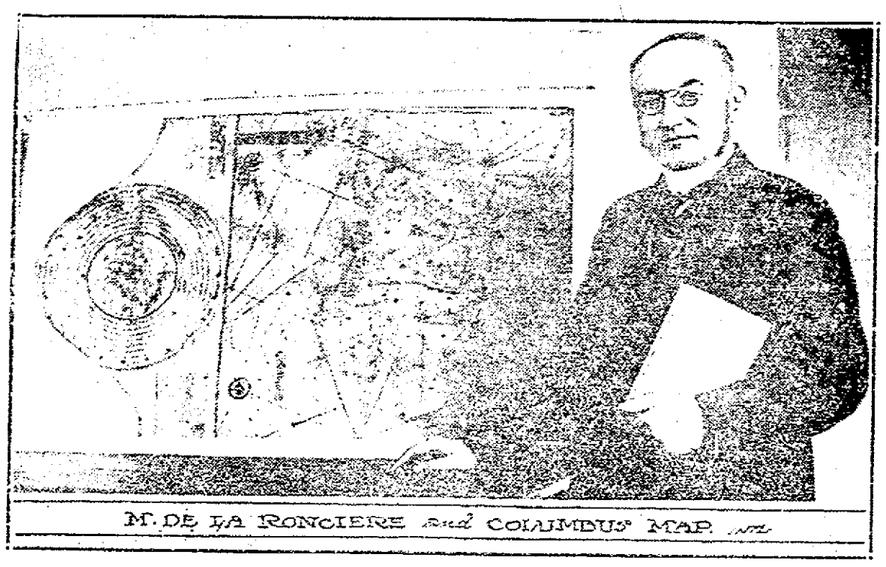

REMARKABLE RESEMBLANCE TO HARRY THAW.

RUSSELL THAW and HARRY THAW. INT.

This striking picture of Russell Thaw, son of Evelyn Nesbit, divorced wife of Harry K. Thaw, was taken at his mother's office in the cabaret she conducts in Atlantic City, N. J. Note the striking resemblance to Harry Thaw, who, however, denies he is the father of the 15-year-old boy.

COLUMBUS MAP FOUND BY FRENCH CURATOR.

M. DE LA RONCIERE and COLUMBUS' MAP. INT.

M. de la Ronciere, curator of the French National Library in Paris, is shown with the Columbus map recently found in the library. The map is believed to have been drawn by Barthelemy Columbus, brother of the discoverer of America, and to have been used by Christopher Columbus himself. M. de la Ronciere had been examining the map while completing a history of Africa and found it registered as a rare specimen of the 16th century Portuguese map. Closer inspection revealed faint inscriptions which identified it as the real Columbus map and showed the ancient Italian name for Cape Verde Islands.

Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes, famous Chicago banker and head of the commission that worked out the recent reparations agreement, is being boomed as the Vice-Presidential candidate of the Republican Party. If he declines, he will be asked to preside over the Cleveland Convention. The Prince of Wales, as president of the Royal College of London, has nominated Leopold Stokowski, director of the Philadelphia Orchestra, who was born in London, to be a fellow in that historic body. Congressman Frederick C. Gillett, of Massachusetts, Speaker of the House, denied as false the statement that he had received whiskey seized by Federal prohibition officials. Dr. Mary M. Patrick, head of the Women's College in Constantinople, has resigned after 50 years' educational work in the Near East, 34 of which she acted as head of the college. She is to return to America.
